

FINANCIAL LITERACY SUMMIT 2014

Summit 2014 Fact Sheet

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK
OF CHICAGO

VISA

What is the Summit?

The Financial Literacy Summit brings together senior international experts to discuss solutions to improving financial capability globally. More than 300 guests attend the Summit in person at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, while tens of thousands more watch the webcast live online and following the event viewing video replays.

Eight Years Partnering with the Federal Reserve

Visa Inc. first partnered with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in 2007 to create and co-host the Financial Literacy Summit. The April 2, 2014 program's theme is Providing Financial Literacy Resources to the Unbanked and Underbanked. Previous year's topics have included: global best practices in financial literacy education; the role of government; advancing financial stability and responsibility; and improving women's financial literacy globally. Panel discussions at the Summit advance financial literacy policy discussion with senior government leaders, and explore what works globally and by different countries specifically.

Previous Speakers

Speakers at past Summits represented 20 countries including:

- Daniel Akaka, U.S. Senator
- Yaseen Anwar, Governor, State Bank of Pakistan
- Richard Cordray, Director, U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau
- James Flaherty, Minister of Finance, Canada
- Linah Mohohlo, Governor, Bank of Botswana
- Duncan Niederauer, Chief Executive Officer, NYSE Euronext
- Richard Riley, Former U.S. Secretary of Education
- José Darío Uribe, Head of Central Bank, Colombia

Who Attends

The event is attended by a diverse array of thought lead-leaders including:

- Government economic and education policymakers, including regulators and members of Congress and Parliament
- Bank executives
- NGO and charitable foundation leaders
- School administrators, educators and academics
- Consumer groups
- Top-tier news media

For More Information

For more information about the Summit: summit@practicalmoneyskills.com